YOUR NUMBERS
START WITH YOUR NUMBERS.
Estimate what you could net from your sale
Ask your lender if you need that sale to buy
Know how long you could carry two homes
SELLER TIPS
3 / 10

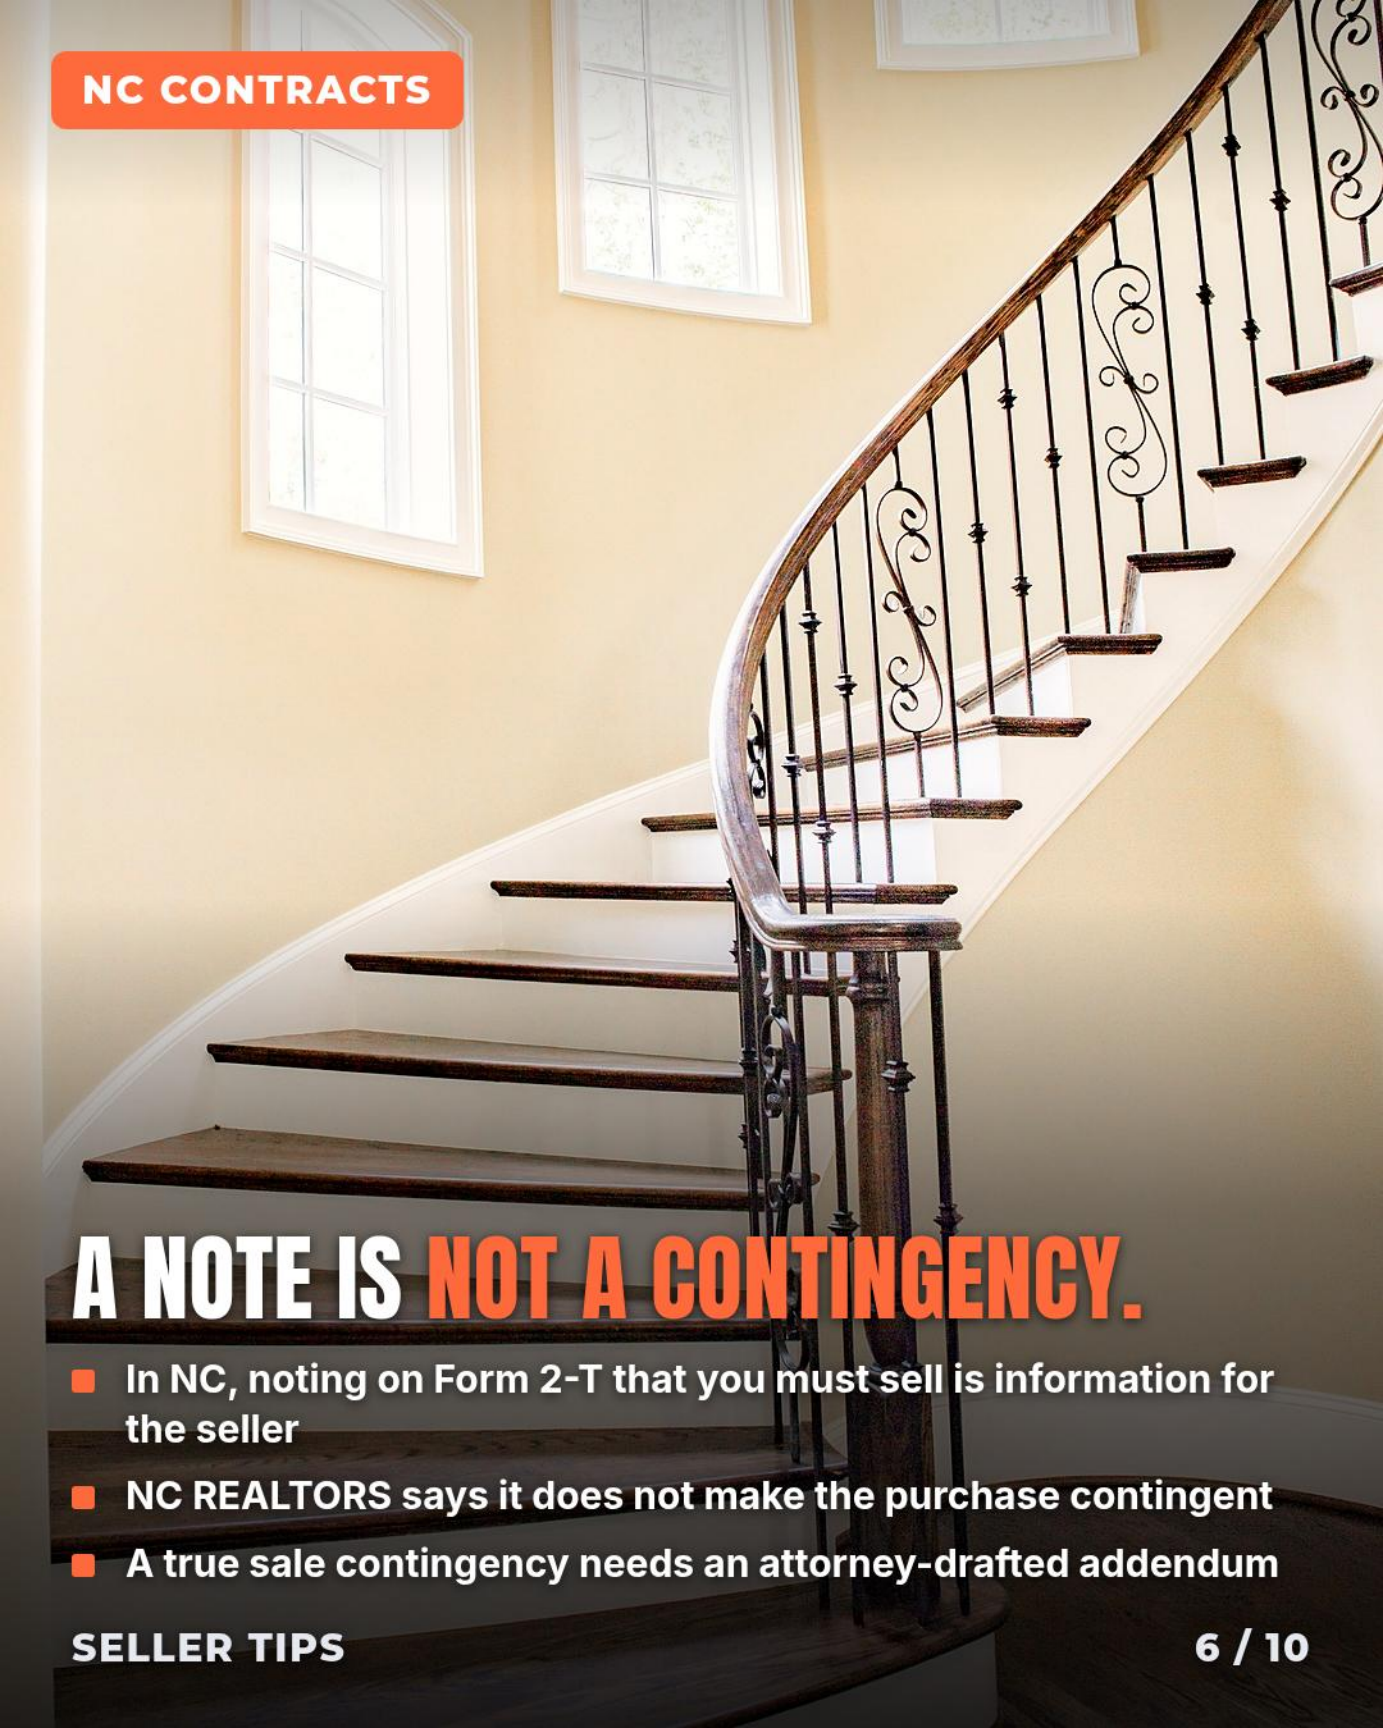

OPTION 1: SELL FIRST.

- You know your proceeds before you make an offer
- You may need a short-term place to stay
- You may be able to stay briefly after closing

OPTION 2: BUY FIRST.

- You can move once, on your own schedule
- You may own two homes for a while
- Ask your lender what that means for you

A NOTE IS NOT A CONTINGENCY.

- In NC, noting on Form 2-T that you must sell is information for the seller
- NC REALTORS says it does not make the purchase contingent
- A true sale contingency needs an attorney-drafted addendum

TIMING

GIVE YOURSELF ROOM.

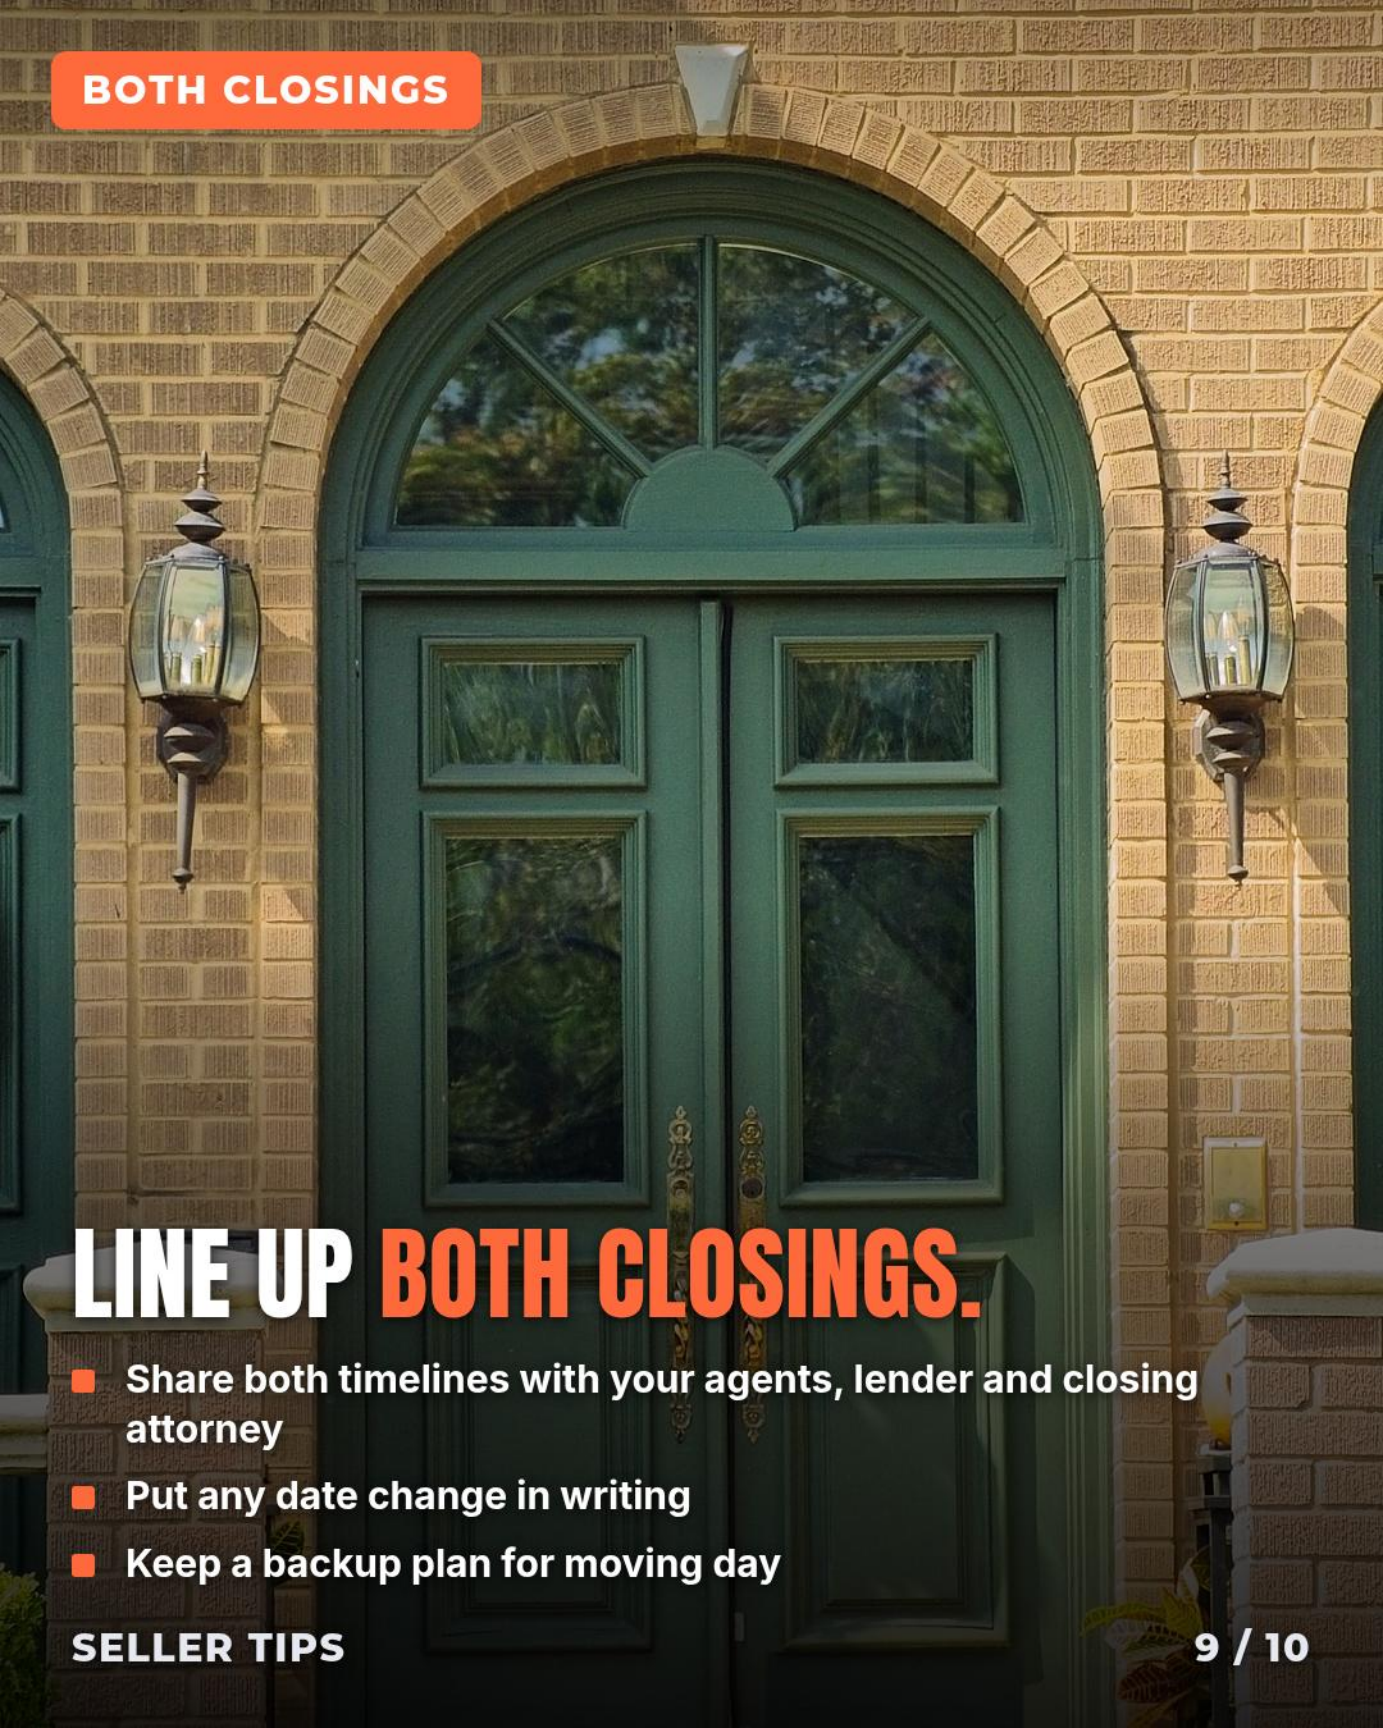

- In NC, a longer due diligence period and later settlement date can help
- Aim to close your sale first, or be reasonably sure it will
- In SC, ask your attorney how your contract handles timing

STAYING AFTER CLOSING

NEED A FEW EXTRA DAYS?

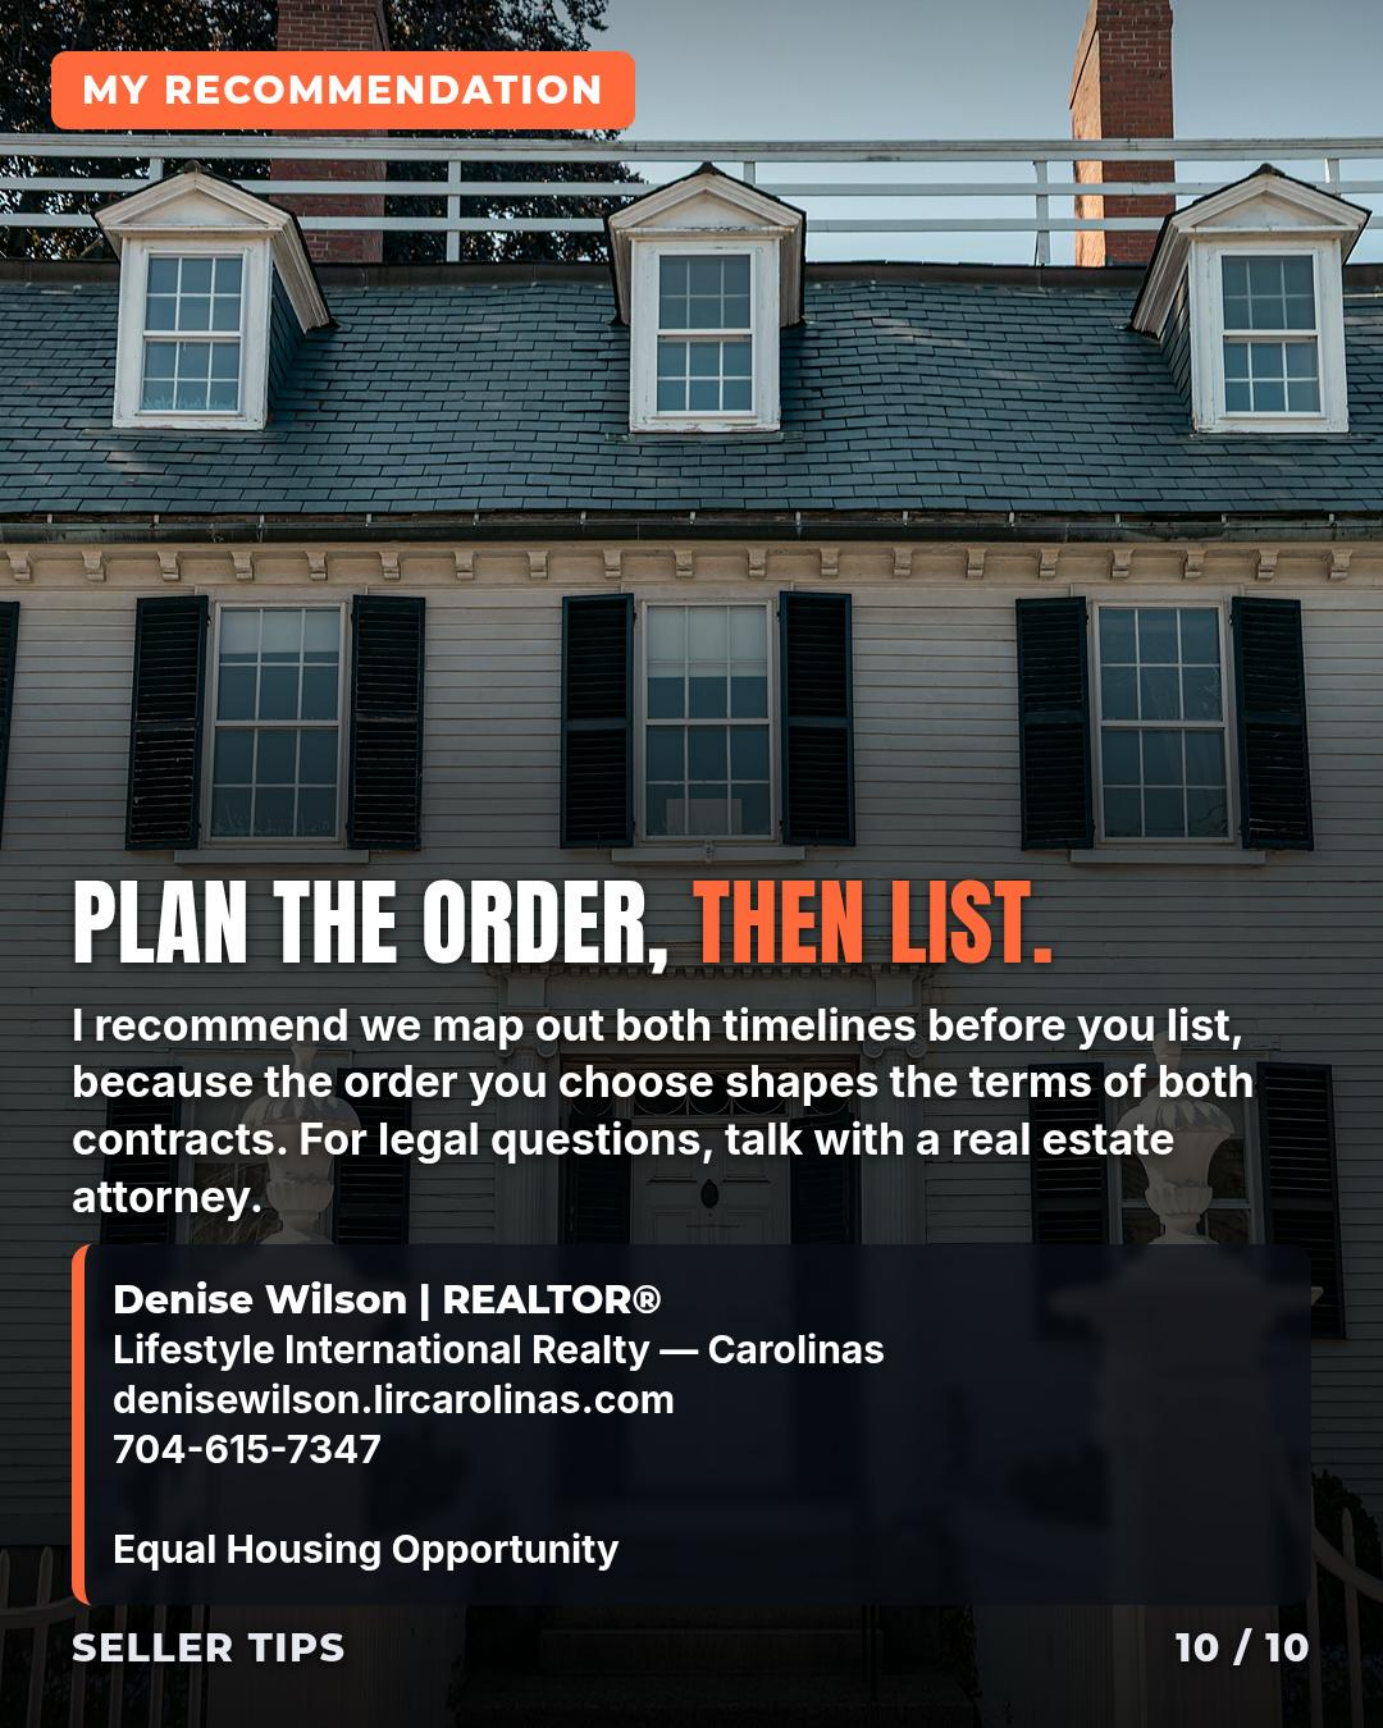

- In NC, Form 2A8-T lets a seller stay briefly after closing
- The buyer has to agree, and it's for short-term stays only
- Check with your insurance professional first

BOTH CLOSINGS

LINE UP BOTH CLOSINGS.

- Share both timelines with your agents, lender and closing attorney
- Put any date change in writing
- Keep a backup plan for moving day

MY RECOMMENDATION

PLAN THE ORDER, THEN LIST.

I recommend we map out both timelines before you list, because the order you choose shapes the terms of both contracts. For legal questions, talk with a real estate attorney.
