REVIEW THE WHOLE OFFER
Price is one line. Fees, deposits, dates and contingencies shape what you actually get. Here's how I recommend reading each offer.

SELLER TIP 2

NC: WEIGH THE DUE DILIGENCE FEE

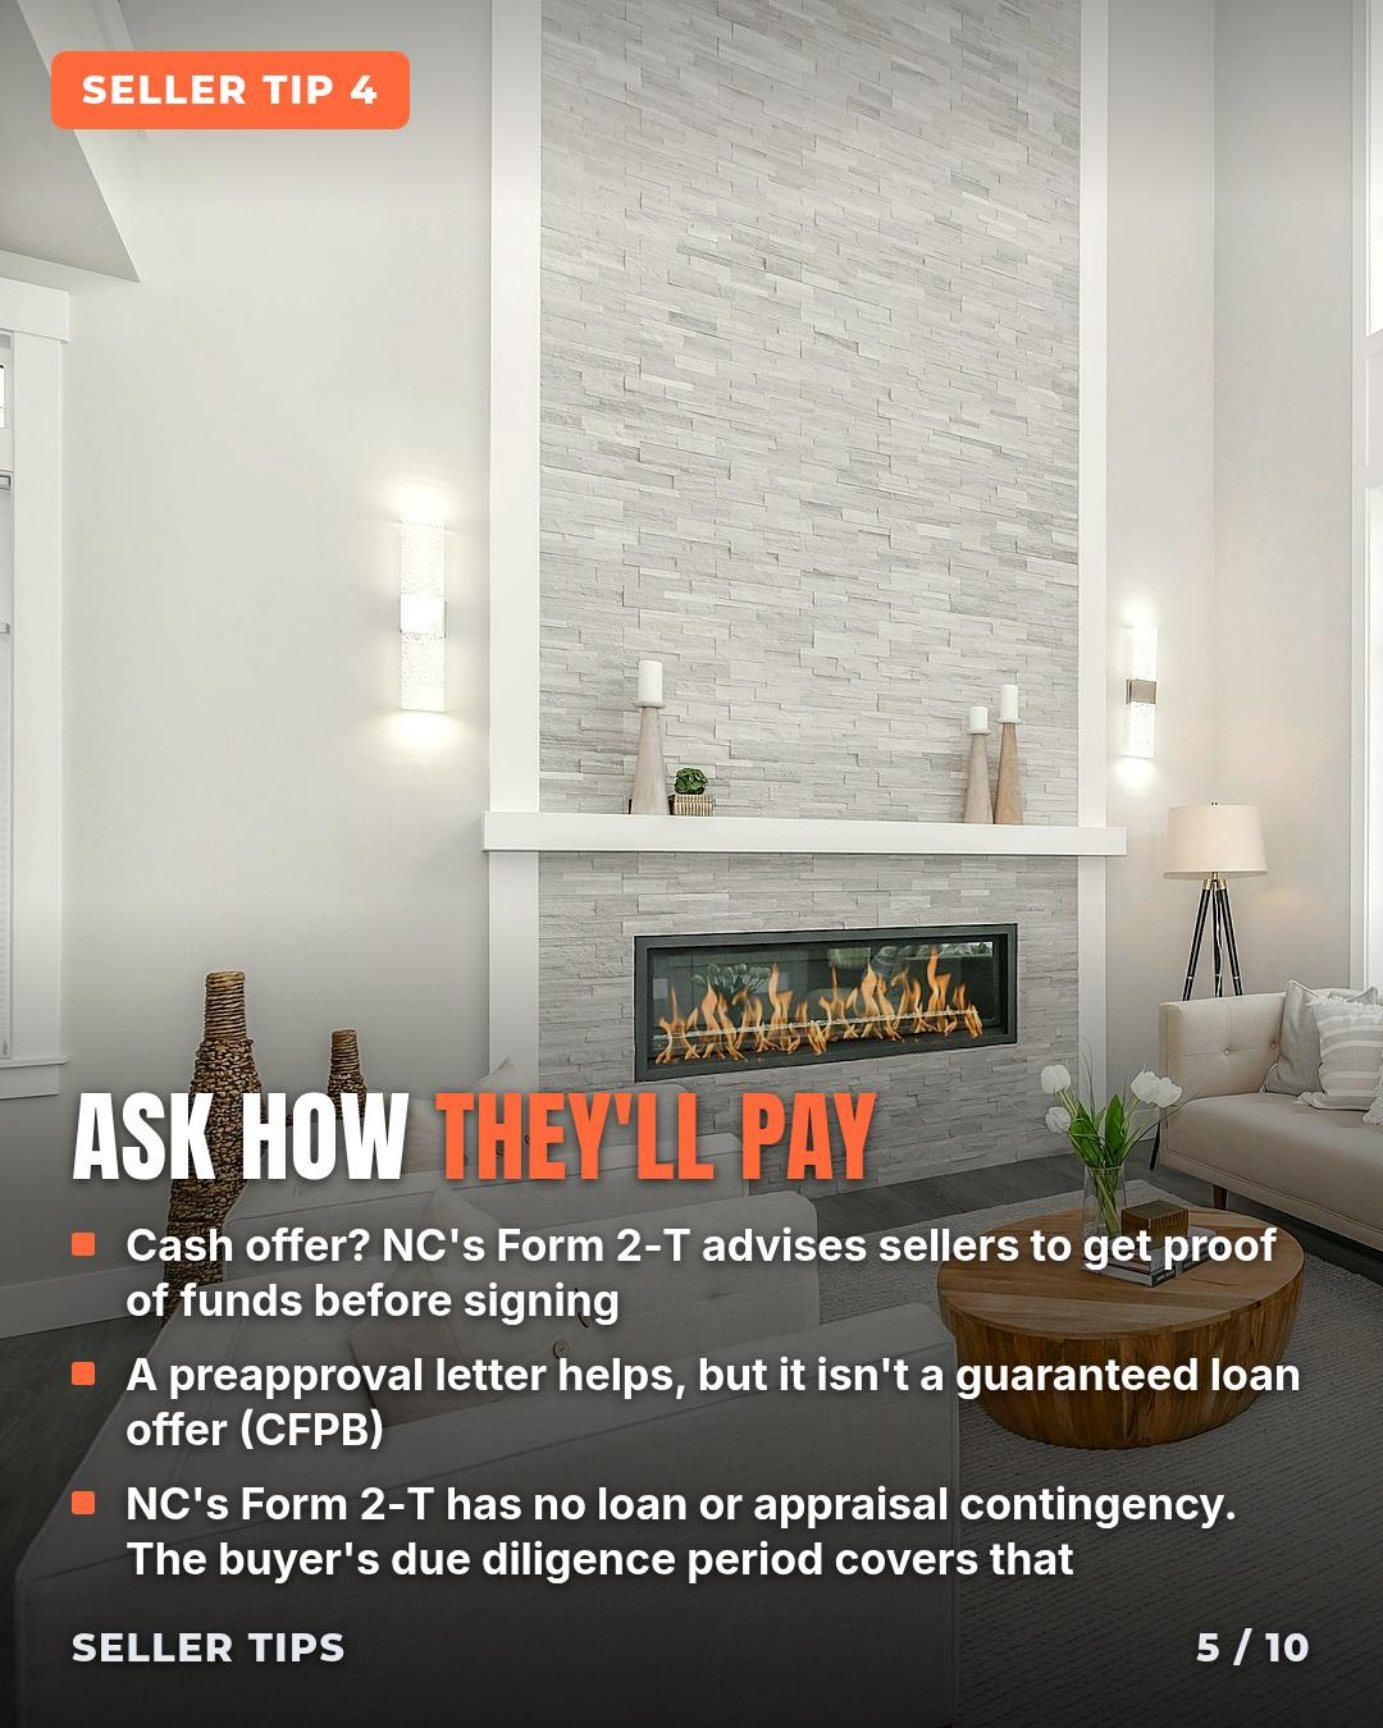

- On NC's Form 2-T, it's paid to you and due on the Effective Date
- It's yours from that date and credited to the buyer at closing
- It's non-refundable unless the contract says otherwise or you materially breach

SELLER TIP 3

CHECK THE EARNEST MONEY

- NC: it goes to the escrow agent within five days of the Effective Date
- NC: if the buyer ends the deal during due diligence, it's refunded to them
- SC: a broker holds it in a separate trust account until closing or termination (S.C. Code 40-57-136)

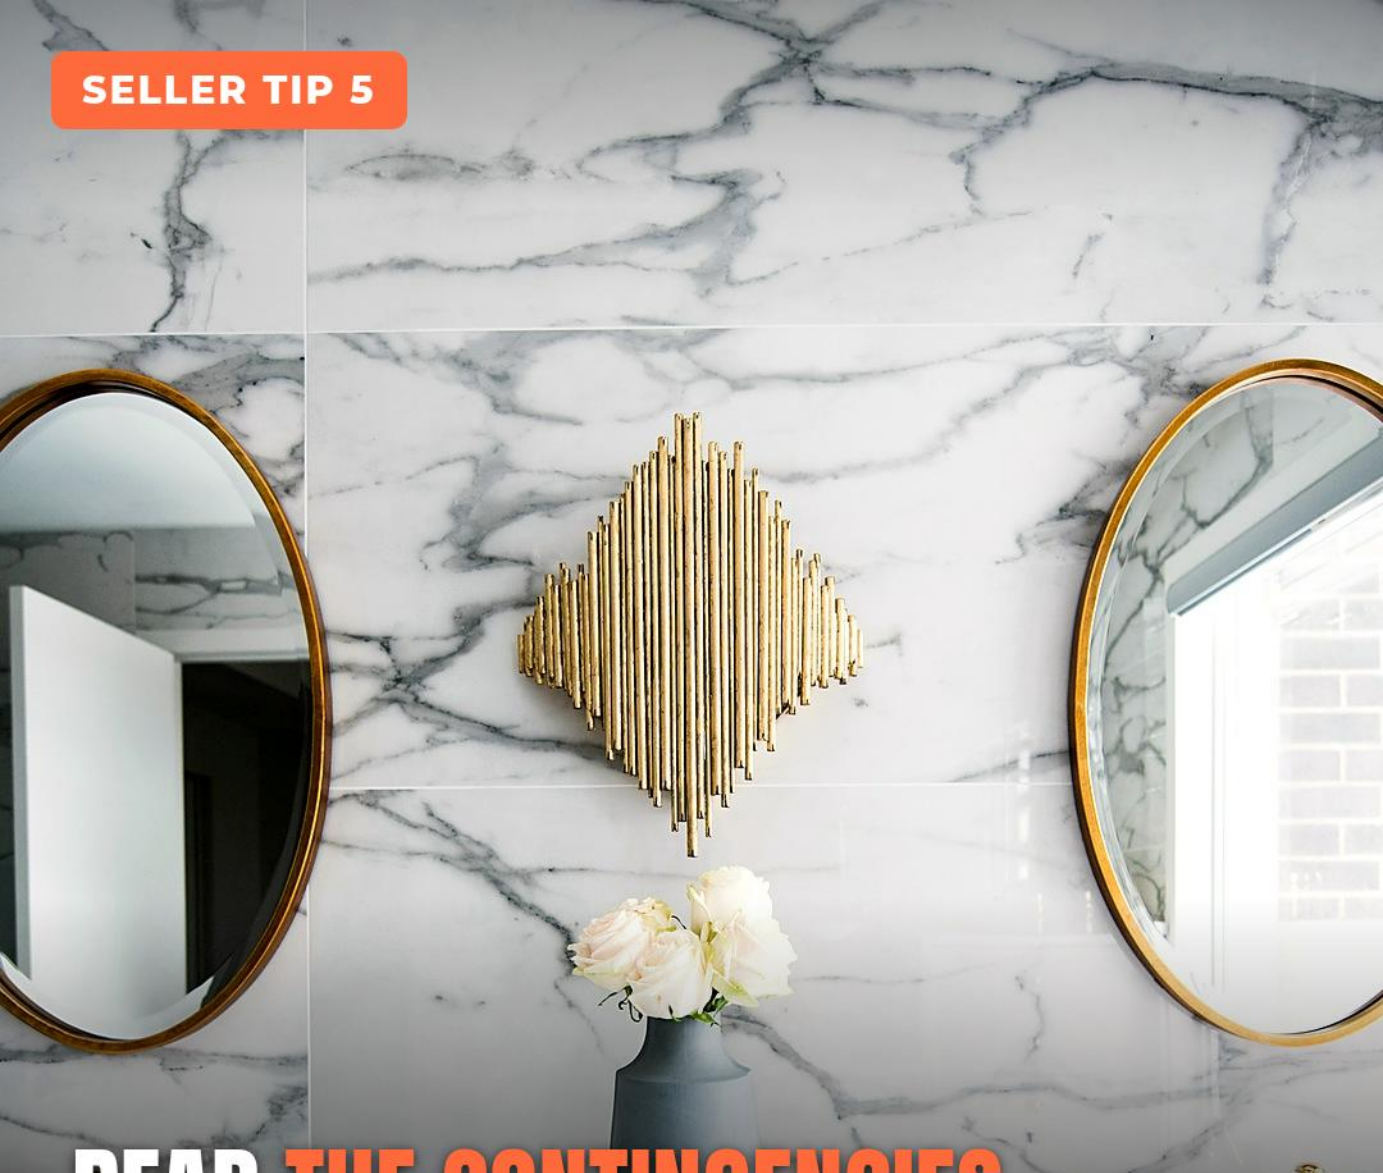

SELLER TIP 4

ASK HOW THEY'LL PAY

- Cash offer? NC's Form 2-T advises sellers to get proof of funds before signing
- A preapproval letter helps, but it isn't a guaranteed loan offer (CFPB)
- NC's Form 2-T has no loan or appraisal contingency. The buyer's due diligence period covers that

SELLER TIP 5

READ THE CONTINGENCIES

- NC: the standard contract isn't contingent on the buyer selling their home. That takes a custom addendum
- SC: every term and condition belongs in the written offer (S.C. Code 40-57-135)
- Know exactly which conditions you're agreeing to

SELLER TIP 6

MATCH THE DATES TO YOUR MOVE

- NC: settlement happens no later than the contract date, at a time and place the buyer picks
- Possession transfers at closing unless an addendum says otherwise
- Need a few days after closing? Ask about a Seller Possession After Closing Agreement (Form 2A8-T)

SELLER TIP 7

ADD UP THE CONCESSIONS

- NC: seller concessions sit on page 1 of Form 2-T, as dollars or a percent
- Buyer agent compensation (Form 220) is a concession too, in addition to those
- Ask for a net sheet on each offer so you compare what you'd keep

SELLER TIP 8

MULTIPLE OFFERS? YOU DECIDE

- There's no "first in the door" rule. You choose which offer to work with (NCREC)
- You can ask some or all buyers for their highest and best (NCREC)
- Any change you make is a counteroffer, and it rejects the original offer (NCREC)

MY RECOMMENDATION

COMPARE OFFERS SIDE BY SIDE

I recommend one page per offer with your estimated net, so you decide on the full picture. Let's review yours together.
