CHARLOTTE NC. COTSWOLD.

AN ENGLISH NAME, MID-CENTURY STREETS.

- A Charlotte neighborhood in ZIP 28211, along Randolph and Sharon Amity Roads
- Named for the Cotswolds region of England, pictured here
- Many homes date from the 1950s and 1960s

NEIGHBORHOOD SPOTLIGHT

HISTORY

IT STARTED AS FARMLAND.

- Cotswold began in the early 1950s as a planned shopping and residential community on the outskirts of Charlotte
- The site was farmland known as Faulkner Plantation
- The first phase was announced in December 1952, and work began 13 days later

MID-CENTURY FROM DAY ONE.

- The first phase was an apartment complex designed by mid-century modern architect C. W. Connelly
- By June 1954 it was mostly complete, and two-thirds of the units were already rented
- In 1978 the apartments were converted to condominiums

SHOPPING HISTORY

ONE OF CHARLOTTE'S FIRST SUBURBAN MALLS.

- A Harris Supermarket opened first, in October 1958
- The full center held its grand opening in summer 1963 as Cotswold Mall, at Randolph and Sharon Amity Roads
- In the early 2000s the enclosed section became an open-air center, today's Cotswold Village

THE HOMES

RANCHES, SPLIT-LEVELS AND REMODELS.

- Brick ranch and split-level homes from the 1950s and 1960s line many streets
- Many original homes have been remodeled
- Newer custom homes now share some of the same blocks

MY TIP

RESEARCH THE HOUSE ITSELF.

- Mecklenburg County parcel records show a home's build year and recorded plat
- Ask which updates were made, and whether they were permitted
- Compare original and remodeled homes by price per square foot, not just list price

GETTING AROUND

CLOSE-IN AND CONNECTED.

- Randolph Road and Sharon Amity Road are the main corridors
- Randolph Road heads west toward Uptown
- Neighbors include Myers Park, Oakhurst, Randolph Park and Sherwood Forest

OUTDOORS

A GREENWAY OFF RANDOLPH.

- Briar Creek Greenway has a 1.0-mile section between Randolph Road and Meadowbrook Road
- Parking for that section is at 115 Museum Plaza
- It's part of a county system with 85.5 miles of greenway trails (Mecklenburg County, March 2026)

MY RECOMMENDATION

LET'S WALK IT TOGETHER.

We'll start at Cotswold Village, then compare an original ranch with a remodeled one a few streets away. I'll pull the parcel records before we go.
