THE RAILS CAME FIRST.

- Charlotte's first train arrived Oct. 21, 1852, on a line through today's South End
- By 1895, the Charlotte Daily Observer called the strip between South Blvd. and the tracks “the Manchester of Charlotte”
- In 1904–1905, the D. A. Tompkins Co. built its machine shop just north of Atherton Mill

THE MILL

FROM COTTON TO CANDY.

- Atherton Cotton Mills, pictured here, was incorporated in July 1892 as Charlotte's sixth cotton mill
- From 1937 to the early 1960s, a candy, baked goods and peanut maker ran the plant
- Today the designated landmark holds shops, restaurants and condos

DESIGN DISTRICT

NAMED SOUTH END IN 1994.

- In 1983, a design firm moved into what people then called “the industrial corridor”
- The name became official in 1994, when the South End Development Corp. (now Historic South End) formed
- The old Nebel Knitting Annex became the Design Center of the Carolinas, pictured here

RAIL TRAIL

PINTS BY THE RAIL LINE.

- South End's craft beer story began at Atherton Mill in 1994
- A new wave of breweries started opening here in 2012
- Wooden Robot, pictured here, opened in 2015 on South Tryon St.

MY TIP

BUYING A CONDO? READ THE HOA.

- Ask for the HOA budget, reserve study and recent meeting minutes
- Check rental rules, pet rules and any planned special assessments
- Confirm whether your parking space is deeded or only assigned

LET'S TOUR IT TOGETHER.

We'll walk the Rail Trail, compare condos, townhomes and lofts, and review the HOA documents before you make an offer.
